The Rescue Mission of Trenton is the agency in the City of Trenton that serves the truly needy men and women who have no place to turn for shelter, food, and clothing. The Mission provides a safe, clean, warm refuge for the homeless, the hungry, the transient, the addicted. The Mission provides services and counseling to encourage individuals to reach their greatest potential. The Mission creates an environment where one can live with dignity, build self-esteem, experience love, responsibility and hope.

Services include:

Vince’s Place: Licensed by the State of NJ, Department of Human Services, as a Residential Addictions Treatment Facility (75 beds).

Outpatient Program: Substance abuse care for men and women providing counseling sessions, group counseling sessions, and addiction education. Referral for medical, behavioral health care, and other services as appropriate.

Robinson Program: Licensed by the State of NJ, Department of Community Affairs, Class C Rooming & Boarding House (50 beds).

Weekend Soup Kitchen
Emergency clothing and furniture
Emergency Shelter: Shelter for single men and women. Licensed by the State of NJ, Department of Community Affairs.

TEACH Program: Individuals are provided training in GED preparation, basic literacy, reading/writing skills, job seeking skills and computer and word processing skills.

Industrial Salvage: Donated materials are collected by route trucks and processed and sold through the Carroll Street Store and warehouse. The Mission depends on Industrial Salvage for 40% of its operating budget.

The Rescue Mission of Trenton is hard to miss. It’s a sprawling facility that occupies most of a city block, framed by Carroll, Perry and Ewing streets.

South on Carroll Street, in a block of town homes, is number 12, a much smaller building that stands out only because of its cheerful renovations.

But for the Mission, the James N. Brimmer House at 12 Carroll Street represents much more than a nice home on a quiet part of the street. Named for the Mission’s former longtime Executive Director, it is the first permanent housing for former clients and reflects a shift in the relationship between the person and the Rescue Mission.

At the Brimmer House, former residents have a place to live while they work at jobs or go to school. Living there comes with the safety net of being overseen by the Rescue Mission, where as former residents they lived for months and made strides to overcome substance abuse and homelessness.

Purchased with money from the City of Trenton’s Regional Contribution Agreement funds and the New Jersey Housing and Mortgage Finance Agency Special Needs Housing Trust Fund, the Brimmer House is home to five tenants. For the five men moving on with their lives, it is home.

“These are not residents of the Mission,” explains Barrett Young, Manager of Life Skills & Operations for the Mission, who oversees the Brimmer House with Sheila Scott, Manager of Social Services. “This house has no affiliation with the programs other than that the Mission owns it.”

At the Mission, residents receive three meals a day and laundry service. At the Brimmer House, they have to cook their own meals, take care of their clothing and rooms, and pay rent. “Here, they have to do everything,” Young said, but, “they like the comfort of knowing the Mission is still there.”

The selection process is rigorous, he said, for the right to share the comfortable furnished kitchen, living room and bathrooms and to have a bedroom that each man makes his own. The Brimmer House opened to its first residents in March, and everything has gone well.

“The guys love it,” Young said. Living there, they have a sense of camaraderie and pride.

“You look out for yourself here,” said resident James Neary, who recently graduated from the culinary program at Mercer County Community College and was waiting to hear about a job.

Patricia Kidd knows how to find out what consumers want, a skill that has proved valuable during her tenure on the Rescue Mission Board of Directors.

Impressed by Mission operations during her first tour of the facilities nearly a dozen years ago, she was asked to put her marketing skills to work to determine what changes would draw more customers to the Mission store.

Employed by Biovid Corp. of Princeton as a strategic researcher for pharmaceutical companies, Pat knows how to collect data. For the Mission, she put together a questionnaire for customers and with help from other volunteers, “spent a day at the Mission training residents on how to administer the survey.” After the information was compiled and sorted, she made a report to the board.

In addition to updating the store, which receives donations from the public and is a valuable source of income for the Mission as well as providing employment for its residents, the board members asked Pat to join them. “Once I got on the board we came up with a strategy for communicating that has successfully elevated the profile of the Rescue Mission,” she said, which is vital during these trying fiscal times.

She enjoys her time on the board and appreciates the work that is necessary to keep the Mission running. “I think it’s a great place and is extremely well-run,” she said. Chief Executive Officer Mary Gay Abbott-Young, she said, “is a motivating visionary.”

“So much of what the Mission does is geared toward being self-supporting,” she said. That and its reputation for being well managed are helping it to weather the current recession. “It’s important for people to know the money they give goes far.” She also has praise for the hard work of her fellow board members. “Ours is a very active board. We don’t waste time,” she said.

Pat grew up in Mercer County, where her father, Steve Kidd, was in the administration at Princeton University, and as a sideline drew cartoons for the Princeton Packet. Currently a resident of Pennington, she serves as an elder at Pennington Presbyterian Church. She loves to travel and several years ago enjoyed a month-long adventure in South America. For fun, “I really enjoy anything sporty,” including tennis, hiking, running and yoga.

Bonnie Baker appointed President of the Board of Directors

Effective January 1, 2009, Bonnie Baker assumed the reins of President of the Mission Board of Directors, succeeding Robert Lewis, Ph.D., who served as President for the past three years. Bonnie, a Princeton resident, is an extremely familiar name to anyone in our area who has been involved in healthcare over the past fifteen years.

“The combination of Bonnie’s extensive background in the provision of healthcare services and her diverse experience in fundraising will be invaluable assets to the Mission as we grapple with the “perfect storm” of increasing demand for our services and reductions in resources in various areas. The silent auction at our recent miniature golf event benefited greatly from Bonnie’s hands-on fundraising talents,” indicated Mary Gay Abbott-Young.
Homeless, James came to the Rescue Mission 15 months earlier through our shelter with little more than the clothes on his back. He came to the Mission wanting help. “At 46, I’m too old for that life,” he said.

The Brimmer House is perfect for him, he said. As a cook, he appreciates the spacious kitchen where he likes to prepare seafood. It’s also his chance to move toward independent living. Becoming independent is a gradual process, he said, which comes over time and by following the rules. “As long as you do the right thing, the right thing happens,” he said.

The Brimmer house was an idea whose time had come, said Mary Gay Abbott-Young, CEO for the Mission. “There was a lot of effort from federal to local government to be more aggressive in assisting clients in finding permanent housing,” she said. Initially, Mission officials discussed creating a unit for 15 to 20 residents. The decision was made to try something smaller first, to see how it would work.

Hutchinson Industries, a major supporter of the Mission, made the project possible by agreeing to underwrite an exploratory study of the project. “This meant no financial risk for the Mission,” Mary Gay said. “We’re very grateful to Hutchinson Industries, the New Jersey Housing and Mortgage Management Finance Agency, the City of Trenton, the neighborhood and the Department of Community Affairs, who have worked with us to embrace the notion that there are individuals who can work hard to rebuild their lives and have a place to live where they can work to improve their living quality,” she said.

Studies have proven that housing is “an absolute necessity” for those struggling with substance abuse, she said. “There is considerable research that, once housed, homeless people do very well.”

“This is clearly the next step in the continuum of progress for them,” she said. Hopefully, the Brimmer House is just the first effort to create permanent housing for residents who leave the Rescue Mission. “We would very much like to see additional quality housing made available,” said the CEO.
Rodney Hargis Continues to Shine

Rodney Hargis stayed at the Rescue Mission for about two years. Upon leaving, Rodney enrolled at Mercer County College. We previously reported that he was one of three applicants selected from approximately 1,000 applicants for the prestigious $5,000 national scholarship and was inducted into Phi Theta Kappa, the National Honor Society for Community Colleges.

Recently Rodney was selected to be the commencement speaker for his graduating class at Mercer County Community College. The Times reported in a feature story on May 22nd that “Rodney Hargis, of Hamilton, started at Mercer in January 2007, continuing the college education that he began in 1990. He graduated with highest honors yesterday, having struggled to leave behind years of addiction, and other personal issues that landed him at the Rescue Mission of Trenton.”

The full text of Rodney’s speech can be found on our website. Here’s what Rodney said about his time at the Mission: “By the time I arrived in this area in 2003, my life had been reduced to nothing but the clothes on my back and a beat-up guitar. Worn down from a life of addiction, I came to Trenton seeking a new life. I found myself in the Rescue Mission of Trenton, where I stayed for 2 years, learning many things during that time, but perhaps the most profound lesson I learned was that the only difference between dreams and reality is prayer and effort.”

Rodney closed his speech by quoting the author Harper Lee, who said, “Real courage is when you’re licked before you begin, but you begin anyway and see it through NO MATTER WHAT.”

On behalf of the entire Mission family, we congratulate Rodney for demonstrating real courage.

Ways to Support the Charitable Work of The Rescue Mission of Trenton

1. Provide a good job to a Mission resident, call Doug Liebau, Director of Entrepreneurial & Training at 609-396-2458 ext. 132 concerning job opportunities.

DCA Commissioner Visits the Mission

We are extremely proud that the Department of Community Affairs (DCA) Commissioner Joseph Doria visited the Mission on June 11th.

DCA offers a wide range of programs and services that respond to issues of public concern including fire and building safety, housing production, community planning and development, and local government management and finance.

Prior to being appointed by Governor Corzine, Commissioner Doria served as he Speaker of the New Jersey General Assembly, State Senator for the 31st Legislative District, and a former Mayor of Bayonne, New Jersey, a position he held from 1998 to 2007.

DCA has provided funding to the Mission through its Shelter Support Program for the Supportive Housing Program renovations on the fourth floor and through its SRAP (State Rental Assistance Program) for residents in our new Permanent Housing Unit at 12 Carroll Street.

Commissioner Doria spent almost two hours at the Mission. The bulk of his time was spent talking to Mission residents about their pre-Mission experiences, their time at the Mission and the various barriers that they have experienced as they attempt to rebuild their lives. The Commissioner ended his visit by touring Brimmer House, the Mission's new permanent housing facility (see cover story).

E-Mission Messages are Coming!

Beginning in September 2009, the Mission will have a new high-tech means of communicating with our many friends and supporters. If we have your e-mail address we will offer you the opportunity to receive a monthly e-blast from us. Mission Messages will provide timely tidbits about the Mission’s programs and people and up-to-date information on upcoming activities and events at the Mission.

“In these extraordinarily difficult times it is extremely important that we do everything within our power to communicate with supporters. It is incumbent on us to convey to friends and supporters the urgency of the situation our clients face and the vital support role that the Mission plays in their lives. As we have indicated repeatedly over the years, the Mission would be unable to rebuild lives were not for the support of the community at-large. We count on your financial contributions, donations of goods, volunteer support and patronage of our Carroll Street and on-line stores,” indicates Mary Gay Abbott-Young, CEO.

According to Bonnie Baker, President of the Board of Directors, “Not only will e-Mission Message increase our ability to rapidly communicate, it will also reduce our cost of communicating which is extremely important in these very difficult economic times.”

If you are not sure whether we have your current e-mail address and would like to receive e-Mission Messages please send your e-mail address to Mar@rescuemissionoftrenton.org. You will begin receiving our e-newsletter on a periodic basis in addition to our mailed newsletter.
